

That's It - Pee Gee DYSTAIN

The kind that brings out the natural beauty of the wood without raising the grain. It produces

Beautiful Stained Effects on Wood

Pee Gee Penetrating Dystain colors just the right shade—and is used with equal success on hard or soft wood. Comes in 12 natural wood colors.

Ask for Free Booklet "Modern Method of Finishing Wood."

A Pee Gee Finish for Every Purpose

For Sale By

WHITNEY Hardware Co.

The Hardware Store

Phone 76. 307 W. Central

AZTEC Fuel Company

Gallup Lump
Gallup Stove
Native Wood
Sawed & Split
Mill Kindling
PHONE 251

north of Combles. The German stronghold of Combles is virtually isolated. The correspondent of the Associated Press went forward yesterday over the ridge in the Devil's wood and Gheluvelt region which the British had sought over two months to gain. He waded for two miles through an area which was saturated to the blants of the great guns, picking his way between the bursts of flame from the crashing batteries and moving around the rows of cañon nests which made a ford in a stream. On the other side of the ridge he saw guns where he had never seen them before—on the promised land of the lower levels which the British infantry who listened to their thunderous chorus as they prepared for the charge in today's attack.

"The usual artillery preparation," said an artillery officer.

ATTACKS BY AUSTRIANS REPULSED BY ITALIANS

Rome, Sept. 26 (via London, 5:30 p.m.)—Violent counter-attacks made by the Austrians on positions the Italians had taken near the summit of Monte Siepi, in the upper Cerdanya valley, have been repulsed, the war office announced today. The statement follows:

"In the Astico district our artillery has rendered futile the enemy's attempt to consolidate the position we evacuated on the summit of Monte Cimone. In the upper Cerdanya, counter-attacks delivered with increasing violence against the position

Our Store Will Be Closed All Day Thursday

Please phone or place your orders TODAY.

JAFFA'S

Grocers Butchers Bakers

If you only knew the luxury of water softened with RAIN-WATER CRYSTALS
you would never be without it

74 LOSE LIVES WHEN ZEPPELINS RAID ENGLAND

In Addition to These More Than One Hundred Fifty Have Been Injured; Attacks on Industrial Centers.

BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADED WIRE
London, Sept. 25 (via London, Sept. 26, 4:30 p.m.)—The Bulgarian army, which has invaded eastern Romania, has made a further advance, taking new positions on the eastern end of the line, the war office announced today. On the Macedonian front the Bulgarians repulsed various attempts of the Serbian forces to advance, following in the steps of the Greeks.

On the Florina front (Macedonia) there were intense battles fighting on the Kamtscha mountain height. Attempts of the enemy to advance on all fronts were fruitless. Incendiary shells were fired by the enemy on the town of Duraz, causing a fire there.

LONDON IS PLEASED AT SUCCESSES OF ALLIES

London, Sept. 27 (2:47 a.m.)—The capture of Thiepval by the British and of Combles by the combined Anglo-French forces announced in the latest official communiqué, is regarded here as the most important success on the western front since the opening of the grand offensive.

The fall of Combles was expected. For weeks it had been in process of encirclement by the British and French. But the capture of Thiepval, which was announced too late for comment in the papers, has proved a genuine surprise, because it has been generally assumed that the advance of the British left, since the beginning of the offensive, July 1, when a check at Gommecourt was suffered.

Thiepval's fall gives to the Anglo-French forces the whole line of low hills which slope to the plain upon which the town Rancourt makes the next fortified center.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken. Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account of the Combles battle," and says it means the German general staff is apologizing for the crushing defeat.

The semi-official account of the capture of Combles speaks of the large number of the garrison and the great quantity of warlike stores taken.

Reuter's official correspondent says:

"This great success was won at very small cost, thanks in part to the excellence of the artillery and in part to a real collapse of the German defense."

Reference is also made to the apparent weakened morale of the German troops, who are declared in some instances to have fled from their trenches, throwing away their rifles.

The Times attaches significance to the "break down of the German defense, confessed in their account